WHAT TO DO.

Do you wish the world were better?
Let me tell you what to do!
Set a watch upon your actions, Keep them always straight and true, Bid your mind of selfish motives Let your thoughts be clean and high;
You can make a little Eden
Of the sphere you occupy.

Do you wish the world were wiser?
Well, suppose you make a start By accumulating wisdom.
In the scrap-book of your heart.
Do not waste one page on folly; Live to learn, and learn to live.
If you want to give men knowledge, You must get it ere you give.

Do you wish the world were happy?
Then remember day by day Just to scatter seeds of kindness As you pass along the way!
For the pleasure of the many May be oftentimes traced to one,
As the hand that plants an acorn Sustains armies from the sun.

SOCIETY'S LENTEN VACATION BETWEEN WINTER AND SPRING.
What a pity the social season is not prolonged by beginning earlier and so distributing the functions that not more than one should be given every twenty-four hours.

The whirl of the last few weeks has been enough to undermine any ordinary constitution and to pall on the taste of the most inveterate devotee.

But, distributed over a season of not less than three months, would have been a source of continued enjoyment—of fresh, enthusiastic pleasure, and into which all concerned could have entered with unaffected zeal to the end.

Under existing conditions, the Mardi-Gras festivities—the magnificent finale to the formal winter season—comes when a majority of society people are fatigued out and possibly unable to even simulate enthusiasm at the very time when enthusiasm should reach its height.

For a week preceding Mardi Gras, both entertaining and being entertained had become perfunctory duties per-formingly performed in most cases, so that Lent is welcomed, not as a season of moral strengthening and spiritual uplifting, but as a relief from social obligations, fancied and real.

Even the young set seems glad of a lull after the brilliant but exhausting round of gayeties that culminated so gorgeously Tuesday night. As for the elders, "Home" never seems quite so "sweet" as, when it is sought by the world-weary seeking rest from social demands.

Everybody is weary of social strenuity, yet—already the plans for after Easter promise another whirl of dissipation even more brilliant and as continuous with the one advantage of more outdoors, and more fresh air and exercise as a part of the program.

HOME SWEET HOME.

"Blessed be the man who first invented Lent," exclaimed a young husband yesterday, "for now perhaps my wife will have leisure to cultivate her husband's society."

"Blessed be the woman who first invented home, say I," was the quick reply, "for now my husband will have forty days leisure in which to cultivate its charms."

FOUR YEAR OLD LOGIC.

A bright little Pensacola boy, son of one of the clerks in the L. & N. freight office, though not quite four years old is a source of continual emotion to the family, varying from amusement to humiliation.

He is intensely interested in the wonders of Nature and his parents take great pains to explain them as intelligibly as possible to the inquiring little chap, but his father is pretty hard driven sometimes to satisfy him, especially as to the relationship that hens, eggs and "biddies" bear to each other. On Tuesday morning he rushed into the house to his mother, his little face glowing and his eyes round with surprise, exclaiming breathlessly:

"O, Mamma! Mamma! Our tree's hatched out!"

"Tree hatched out? Darling, what do you mean?"

"Why, some of the little eggs opened last night and beautiful flowers hatched out and soon they'll be peaches, mamma! O, I am so glad, mamma!
Peaches is most as good as biddies."

The same little man's grandmother has a hobby for saving seeds to plant, and, in answer to his eternal—"Why?" has impressed him with the importance of not wasting valuable seeds.
Recently he approached his mother's sister with right forefinger stiffly extended and in a matter-of-fact tone said:

"Auntie, here's the seed of me. I got it out of one of my noses." Then, leaning confidently against her he continued: "You better plant it 'fore it gets too old, auntie, then you can grow a whole lot of 'Little Blessings like me."

When his elder sister was about his age the family lived a few miles out of town and one evening, hurriedly preparing to take the train for town, the mother told her little daughter to run ahead to the depot and perchase the tickets—a commission which she was usually quick to proudly execute, being friendly with the agent. But this time she hesitated for a moment then gravely asked:

"Mamma, is it the depot, now?"
"Why, of course, dear. Why?"
"I should think it would be the night-po, now."

FOR MRS. PEPPER'S AND MRS. GERALD'S GUESTS.

Miss Lillie Williams entertained charmingly Wednesday night complimentary to Miss Throver and Miss Mahone of Laverne, Ala., guests of Mrs. B. R. Pepper, and Miss Gerelds of New Decatur, Ala., who is the guest of Mrs. James T. Gerelds.

Progressive flinch occupied a portion of the evening and was succeeded by delightful refreshments, music and social games.

The attractive honorees are being showered with social attentions by the many friends of their popular hostesses and are winning all their new acquaintances for their friends.

Mrs. W. H. Favourite who spent Mardi Gras with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Richards, will leave Monday for her home in Gulfport.

Mrs. William Fisher's guests, Mrs.
Perice and daughter Miss Dorothy of Springfield, Mass., left Wednesday for home. Mrs. Perice was the recipient of many charming attentions while here, and will always be welcome when she returns.

CATHOLIC LADIES LUNCHEON.

The luncheon served by the Catholic ladies during Mardi Gras was not only a great gastronomic and financial success, netting them $265.00, but it was an artistic triumph.

The large show windows were embellished in southern wild amilax, chrysanthemums and carnations, which were in charge of two exquisite little ladies who, though only ten and twelve years old, were themselves among the great attractions.

They were Miss Marguerite and Miss Pauline Monaghan, and their customers were surprised and delighted to discover that not only the beautiful flowers but the costumes of the flower girls, were made of paper.

Miss Marguerite, the brunette wore a red paper dress and represented a rose while her blonde sister Miss Pauline wore a white paper dress and represented a lily. Miss Marguerite the elder also furnished a number of plano selections that also delighted the crowds that thronged about them.
These charming little girls recently came to this city from Boston but are originally from Halifax, N. S., and certainly contributed generously to the success of the paper flower show

Mrs. J. L. Bryan who has not been so well for several days, was better yesterday and her many friends trust she will now steadily improve. Her son is a beautiful picture of healthy infancy.

Miss Leontine Quina, the pretty young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A.
Quina, who has been quite ill for several days, was not so well yesterday but it is hoped that she will begin to improve in a day or two.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Muldon, who spent the winter with Mr. and Mrs.
Thomas W. Brent, are now comfortably settled in their bayshore residence which has been greatly improved during their absence and is now more attractive than ever.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Brown, son Henry Wright Brown and nurse, left last night for Georgia in the interest of Mrs. Brown's health. Happily she was feeling much better yesterday and a few weeks of bracing Georgia atmosphere will doubtless restore her health, as innumerable friends trust it will.

Mr. J. B. Smith of Boothe, Ala., gave a launch party Tuesday afternoon for Miss Fannie Gingles and her visitors, visiting the navy yard and

WM. E. CURTIS WRITING UP SOUTH

WAS IN PENSACOLA YESTERDAY SECURING DATA FOR SE-RIES OF ARTICLES IN A
CHICAGO PAPER.

William E. Curtis, staff correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald, and one of the most widely known newspaper writers in the world, reached Pensacola yesterday morning in his private car, accompanied by his secretary, E. Dudley Burrows, and W.
L. Curtis, and M. A. Hart of the Industrial and Immigration Department of the Southern Railway. Mr. Curtis has been through many of the southern states gathering data for a series of articles on the progress of the south during the last ten years, and is en route to Mobile and New Orleans. He is scheduled to reach Chicago on March 20.

During yesterday Mr. Curtis was taken for a trip around the bay by Collector John E. Stillman, Division Passenger Agent Lorton of the L. & N., and J. M. Roberts. Later he was taken for a drive over the city by Mr. Stillman, Mr. Jones and Frank L.
Mayes.

Mr. Curtis is of short and heavy build, has a keen eye and is very observant. He carried with him a small book in which he made notes from time to time for future reference in connection with descriptive articles.
During his trip about the bay and city he talked interestingly of his travels in the Orient and other parts of the world.

Mr. Curtis was seen by a Journal representative shortly after his return to the city from the trip on the bay and was asked what he thought of that fine body of water.

"You have a magnificent harbor," said Mr. Curtis, "one of the finest bodies of water I think I have ever seen."

"Mr. Curtis, you come to the south frequently and have seen it, together with practically every other section of this country. What do you think of the future of the south from an industrial standpoint?"

"The south," replied Mr. Curtis, "is the coming section. With the same amount of labor a man can produce much more here than he can in either the north or the west."

Mr. Curtis left on the 11 o'clock train last night for Mobile, where he will spend to-day.

INQUIRES FOR VISIONARY FOUNT OF HEALTH.

Some South American dreamer is probably responsible for the following letter which recently appeared in the columns of the Jacksonville Times-Union:

Postmaster Gerow has received the following request for information, and as he knows nothing of the wonderful fountain of salts of turpentine, has turned it over to the Times-Union.
San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 27, 1905.
Dear Sir: In the Caras y Carretas, a periodical of Buenos Aires, South America under date of November 26, 1904, I read what follows:

"Not far from Jacksonville, Florida, United States of North America, they have found a recently formed fountain saturated with salts of turpentine, which evaporates up to the air, and which is said to possess the power to cure the most acute cases of bronchitis and pulmonary catarrhs."

"It also shows a picture of the place, which is in the shape of a lake said to be a hundred yards square.

Some cables can be seen stretched across the lake at a respectable height, and from each cable is suspended a chair in which the patients are said to be seated for a half-hour or so. The article concludes by saying they project to build a sanitarium on the place, but the article gives no names, addressed to any other information.

"So, I thought I would write to you and I wish you would kindly send me a thorough description and all information in regard to the place, or tell me if it is a canard."

"Most cordially yours,
"FRANCES MANDRE,
"Vallejo St., San Francisco, Cal."

Postmaster Gerow has furnished the letter to the Times-Union as he knows nothing about the place. If any one else does know, they might write to Mr. Mandre and give him the particulars.

When it is remembered that George Eugene Bryson has been in South America, the source of the article may be imagined, or possibly some Jacksonville dreamer has been contributing to the Caras y Carretas and will have a new scheme to spring on the public shortly.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid.
In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists.
For sale by W. A. D'Alemberte, druggist and apothecary, 121 S. Palafox.
